

SKY SAFARI

Tanzania

A wide-angle photograph of a savanna landscape during sunset. The sky is a gradient of deep blue at the top, transitioning through orange and yellow near the horizon. The horizon line is low, showing distant hills and a vast expanse of dry, golden-brown grassland dotted with small, dark trees. In the foreground, there is a dense thicket of green trees and bushes, some with small yellow flowers. The text is overlaid in the center-left of the image, in a white, serif font.

Road transfer to Kilimanjaro airport and departure

Arusha

There's a palpable buzz as you approach Kilimanjaro Airport: Africa's highest mountain looms large outside.

Once on the ground and whisked to your home for the night however, the buzz comes from the bushes: Elewana Arusha Coffee Lodge sits in the foothills of Mount Meru, its suites sprinkled amid one of Tanzania's largest working plantations.

Retreat to your stylish room amid the bean-laden bushes, breathe in the heady java scent, dine in the glorious gardens and unwind in the spa. Soothing in the extreme, this is the perfect pre-safari stay.

Tarangire

Tarangire is the unexpected awesome; the connoisseur's choice. More than 3,000 elephants – one of the largest populations in East Africa – reside here while the swamps host 550 species of bird. During the dry season, the perennial Tarangire River becomes the sole water source for a marvellous menagerie: all you need do is sit on its banks and let the wildlife come to you.

That said, the diversity of this ecosystem ensures wildlife-viewing is exceptional year round. And it begins as soon as you touch down at Tarangire's airstrip – the onward journey to your lodge, via bulbous baobabs and grassy plains, is a game drive, not a transfer. By the time you reach Treetops, you'll already have spotted a host of species.

The magic continues: in a private conservancy bordering the national park, Elewana Treetops is like something from a fairytale, a scatter of suites teetering amongst the branches of the baobab and marula trees. From your elegant eyrie you can look out, uninterrupted, over the sweeping plains, though you'll want to come down now and then: to walk out with the Maasai for intimate bush encounters; to join night drives to see the action after dark; to relax in the lounge bar, watching over the waterhole below; and to sit on Sunset Hill late afternoon, cocktail in hand, to toast a great day's end.

Serengeti

The Serengeti defies description, stretching over 14,763 square kilometers of breathtaking wilderness. While its vastness inspires awe, it's the intimate moments that captivate: the suspense of a lion hunt, the sudden eruption of a crocodile from the river, the thunderous charge of a bull elephant, and the mesmerizing beauty of the sun dipping below endless plains.

The Serengeti is abundant with game – from the Big Five and cheetah to huge plains herds. You might time your visit for the dramatic peak of the Great Migration, when more than a million animals cross the rivers in the Serengeti's north. But the animals are always on the move: there is plenty to see, all over the park, year round.

Seasonal changes determine your accommodation in the Serengeti, ensuring optimal experiences year-round. Experience either the luxurious bygone-style tents of Elewana Serengeti Pioneer Camp perched on a rocky kopje, or the sophisticated stilted tents of Elewana Serengeti Migration Camp.

Ngorongoro Crater

Over 20km wide and 600m deep, Ngorongoro is a geological marvel and a festival of wildlife. This natural volcanic amphitheatre, lined with grasslands, acacia thickets, riverine forest and sparkling lakes, throngs with a cast of around 30,000 animals: the highest density of wildlife in Africa. Safaris here can be overwhelming, in the very best way.

There's no need to rough it to enjoy this 'festival' though. Your home is Elewana The Manor, quite possibly the most lavish address on the safari circuit. From your elegant Cape Dutch-styled cottage, tucked into the Tanzanian highlands, you can make forays through the surrounding coffee plantations and over the rim to explore the crater bottom: watch zebra and buffalo, lounging lions, spotted hyena and good numbers of black rhino, stopping for a gourmet picnic under the acacias.
